How to Treat the Indians.

Mr. Bowles, of the Springfield Republican, in a letter from Denver, devotes much space to the Indian question. We quote a few passages:

The wild clamor of the border for the indiscriminate extermination of the savages, as of wolves or other wild beasts and vermin, is as unintelligent and barbarous as the long dominating thought of the country against the use of force, and its incident policy of treating with the Indian as an equal of the white man is unintelligent and impracticable. The conflict between them, with the varying supremacy of each, has brought us nothing but disaster and disgrace; we have alternately treated these children of the wilderness as if we were worse barbarians than themselves, or downright fools. It is time we respected our selves and our kindred their respect—now we do neither.

In the first place, the case of the Indians should be put into a single Department at Washington. Its division between the War and Interior Secretaries is the cause of half our woes. The War Office, as representing force, which is the first element of any successful dealing with ignorance and dependence, should monopolize their care. Then we could stop making treaties with tribes, cease putting them on a par with ourselves. We know they are not our equals; we know that our right to the soil, as a race capable of its superior improvement, is above theirs; and let us act, openly and directly, on our fair claim. The earth is the Lord's; it is given by Him to the nations for his improvement and development; and we are the saints. This old Puritan premise and conclusion are the faith and practice of a free people; let us hesitate no longer to avow it and act it to the Indian.

Let us say to him, you are our ward, our child, the victim of our destiny, ours to displace, ours also to protect. We want your manning grounds to our gold from, to raise grain on, and you must "move on." Here is a home for you, more limited than you have had; hither you must go, here you must stay; in place of your game we will give you horses, cattle, sheep, and food. Do what you can to multiply them and support yourselves; for the rest, it is our business to keep you from starving. You must not leave the home we have assigned to you; the white man must not come hither; we will keep you in and him out; when the march of our Empire demands this reservation of yours, we will assign you another; but so long as we choose, this is your home, your prison, your playground.

Say and act on this as we meant it, and mean it. If the tribes would go and submit peacefully, well and good; if they would not, use the force necessary to make them. Treat them just as a father would treat an ignorant, undeveloped child. It is necessary to punish, punish; subject any way; and then use the kindness and consideration that are consistent with the circumstances. Use the best of these white men of the border, these Indian agents, many of whom are most capable, and intelligent, and useful men, to carry out and maintain this policy, so far as is necessary to enforce it, out without the borders whenever it is not for their presence or an Indian reservation is demoralizing to both parties—but let all authority proceed from a single head, and that head represent a single policy.

Above all, stop treaty-making humbug, it is the direct parent of all our Indian woes, and thence too. Neither party keeps the bargain. The Indian is cheated; the Senate changes the provisions; a quidding Secretary of the Interior or Indian Commissioner refuses to carry it out; and from Secretary down through contractor and agents something is taken off the promise to the ear by each, till it is thoroughly broken to the hope of the poor savage. What the Indian wants is to be clothed; the treaty and those who fulfil it on our part may or may not honor him, often not; he cannot tell what or how much he wants beforehand or these ends, and if he did, and bargained for it, the chances are ten to one that he fails to get it;—getting it squanders it at once, and hungry and naked, he goes forth to seek relief, and hence his excuse and the excuse of white sympathizers for war. But establish Force for Bargain; Responsibility for Equality; Paretago for Annuity; see that he is put apart and kept apart from the tide of settlement and civilization; that he has food and clothing, supplying him the means to help himself in the simplest forms possible—stock raising is practicable to all the tribes, and tilling the soil possible to most—and turning the rest from day to day; add such education as he will take, such elevation as he will be awakened to, and then let him die—as he is doing and die he must—under his changed life.

This is the best and all we can do; his game lies before the white man; we cannot restore it to him if we would; we wouldn't if we could; it is his destiny to die; we cannot continue to him his original, pure barbaric life; he cannot amount to that of civilization; the mongrel marriage of the two that he embraces and must submit to, is killing him—and all we can do is to smooth and make decent the pathway to his grave. All this is possible; it need not cost so much as the mixed state of war and bargaining that we have heretofore pursued; in the beginning there must be the display and the use of power to unlearn in the Indians the false ideas our alternately cowardly bargaining and cowardly bullying policy toward them has engendered but once inaugurated, it will be simple and successful—it will give us peace, and then an easier path to the grave than lies before them now.

We have all heard of golden weddings, silver weddings, &c., but the latest thing in this line is a molasses candy wedding. This occurs when the first baby gets old enough to lick.

King Theodore's son is to be trained for the Indian civil service.
